Skills & Strengths

COMMUNICATION & PRESENTATION

My background in science and creative arts has helped me develop the ability to communicate ideas clearly and effectively to different audience. Through academic presentations and live performances, I have strengthened my awareness of how vocal delivery, body language, and eye contacts influence communication. I am also able to adapt my presentation style to suit different audiences and communicating information in an accessible and engaging way.

FEEDBACK & COLLABORATION

Through university group projects and ensemble performances, I have developed skills in collaboration, active listening and interpersonal communication. Working with others has taught me to appreciate and value different perspectives, and to communicate ideas constructively.

MULTIMODAL COMMUNICATION

My participation in creative projects has given me experience communicating through different forms of media, such as visual, written, non-verbal and auditory communication. Different communication methods could complement each other to reinforce a stronger branding image, create interest in the work, and increase audience engagement.

INTERPERSONAL SKILLS

One of my interpersonal strengths is my ability to approach others with openness, respect, and empathy. I recognize the importance tailoring different approach to different people’s communication style, I aim to create a positive and welcoming environment where others feel comfortable expressing their thoughts and ideas.
